

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

In an electronic ballast, a rapid-start fluorescent lamp is powered by way of a series-resonant LC circuit. Heating power for the lamp's cathodes is obtained by way of loosely-coupled auxiliary windings on the tank inductor of the LC circuit.